O F L E N T

Filled with the Holy Spirit, Jesus returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit into the desert for forty days, to be tempted by the devil. - Lk 4:1-2a

Excerpts from the Lectionary for Mass ©2001, 1998, 1970 CCD.

©LPI

“No act of virtue can be great if it is not followed by advantage for others. So, no matter how much time you spend fasting, no matter how much you sleep on a hard floor and eat ashes and sigh continually, if you do no good to others, you do nothing great.” ~ St. John Chrysostom

Archbishop's Annual Appeal

The 2022 Archbishop's Annual Appeal is now underway in our parish. Your support of this year's Appeal ensures that essential charitable, educational, and pastoral ministries of the Archdiocese of Hartford are carried forward.

For the sixth year in a row, in 2021, the Archbishop's Annual Appeal Vicariate Outreach Program provided over $1,000,000 to over 180 local organizations in Hartford, Litchfield, and New Haven counties.

All funds donated to the Archbishop's Annual Appeal are used exclusively for the purposes outlined in the Appeal literature at: archdioceseofhartford.org/appeal/ No Appeal funds are ever used for legal fees or settlements.

SS. Isidore and Maria Parish sincerely thanks the sponsors whose generosity makes our bulletin possible.

Inspiration for the Week

by Rev. Mark Suslenko

Human beings did not come to believe in God just because of someone's private testimony about him. Instead, belief in God became real when human beings understood that all of human history is being guided and led, kept and sustained by a God who is incredibly in love with all he has made. It is this realization that leads us to thanksgiving and gratitude for the one who gives us "this land flowing with milk and honey." It also leads us to adoration and worship as we continue to see the creative power of God's presence in all of the events of our lives. The Church stands as a living witness to these things and calls us during Lent to reflect and remember. There is a great temptation for human beings to leave the truth of who they are, where they came from, and who created them. Falling into this temptation, we cease giving thanks to and worshiping our Creator as we pursue self-sufficiency, power, and prestige. While having more may seem better, the only thing we need more of is love. This fortifies us and keeps us from falling.

Join us this Tues., Mar. 8 For Broken and Blessed

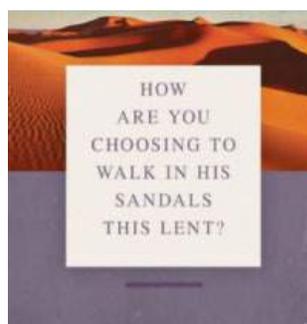

When is the last time you took a moment to ponder life's more profound questions: Who am I? Who made me? What is my purpose?

Join your fellow parishioners on Tues., March 8 at 7 p.m. at St. Paul Church as together with Father Mark we begin to explore these pivotal questions as a community. We're calling it "Broken and Blessed," It'll be an informal evening of reflection, exploration, contemplation and contemporary music to help guide each of us on our personal path to truth. Light refreshments will be available. For more information, visit the parish website.

Reconciliation (Confession)

We forget that to be human means to accept our growing pains. We are incomplete works, yet works in progress. Our lives are never entirely integral, whole and perfectly constructed creations but a diverse collection of broken pieces. If not welcomed with love, our necessary incompleteness can propel us to consistently and sometimes compulsively seek control and satisfaction. Whatever makes us feel that we are in charge and not in immediate want is what we choose. Life's illusions and the empty promises of the evil one can be enticing lures. Distracted, hurting and tired we can become preoccupied with preserving our status in life, multiplying our worldly accomplishments and wealth, achieving power and influence and seeking the path of least resistance. When we realize that we carry deep hurts that cannot be remedied by our own efforts or anything the world can provide, we can find peace.

Who am I? Who made me? What is my purpose? These are pivotal and fundamental questions that must be asked and adequately answered. Life's illusions and empty pleasures can distract us from discovering their real answers. When faced with important choices we are tempted to leave the truth of who we are and who God is aside. Achieving self-sufficiency, power and prestige can appear to be the perfect fix to the loneliness, angst and emptiness we experience. Any lie can pretend to be true. But this lie can only keep up its pretense for a short time. At some point, it will be seen as the shallow, self-destructive falsehood. Sometimes it's easier to replace our true God with the one we carry in our back pocket, the god we created ourselves.

We like control and satisfaction. Many crave it. One of the most significant sources of anxiety is the absence of control. We're afraid that we are going to fall apart. We instinctively know that we are a conglomeration of broken pieces rather than a complete whole, but we're scared to admit it. We don't want to appear vulnerable. This gives attractions and lures their power. Forgetting who God is increases the temptation to believe the lie. In the end, it is not the foundation of our homes that will support us but the foundation of our souls. Therein lies the mystery and beauty of what it means to be human. Our peace, tranquility, purpose, and identity are not tied to the world but to our Creator. Nothing outside can satisfy and provide better than what comes from within.

We forget some of the fundamentals that can keep us from making wrong choices and falling victim to evil in disguise. Who am I? A child of God. Who made me? God made me. What is my purpose? To know and serve my Creator. While these may appear to be simplistic, they are not. For if we can keep these questions and their answers firmly rooted in our minds, hearts, and souls they can be game changers for how we approach the things of this world and life's challenges. We can easily forget who is in charge and to whom we belong. This is the highest and worst of the illusions. Once we give ourselves or others more importance than is rightfully theirs, we quickly stumble down the path of sin. Sin is ultimately an absence of desire for God manifested in various intensities. Once other things become more desirable in fulfilling my well-being, purpose, and happiness, we are in trouble.

Temptation does not need to be our enemy. It can become a means to salvation! St. Basil remarks, "As the pilot of a vessel is tried in the storm, as the wrestler is tried in the ring, the soldier in the battle and the hero in adversity, so is the Christian tried in temptation." Here is the reason for Lent: to make temptation our friend. There is no doubt that we sin, even though we often prefer to forget or deny that fact. We are sinners. Given that fact, every temptation becomes an opportunity to choose either for grace or sin. The more we can choose virtue over vice, good over evil, truth over lies, and others over ourselves, the stronger we will become. Properly confronting and dealing with temptation builds Christian character. Ironically, when we build strong Christian character, we gain control and satisfaction. They come from within.

Ryan Stevenson performs a great song entitled Eye of the Storm. Life will always present us with challenges, lures and promises to tempt us, causing us to succumb to weakness. But when we put God first and give God proper thanks and worship, we are given a strong anchor and no longer need to be afraid. "In the eye of the storm, you remain in control. And in the middle of the war, you guard my soul. You alone are the anchor when my sails are torn. Your love surrounds me in the eye of the storm." What we ultimately need more of is Love. What we need less of are the cheap imitations that look like it. Love, who is God, fortifies us and keeps us from falling. We come to know and believe that we are guided and led, kept and sustained by a God who is incredibly in love with all he has made. We need to own this truth, and it must be born in our souls.

God is not going to intrude on our space. We have to make the room. Our lives can keep us extremely preoccupied, distracted, confused, tired, conflicted, and task-driven. Our existence becomes tied to devices. We interact more with things than with people. We lost touch with the flesh and bones of humanity and risk seeing people more as objects than unique artistic creations. We are becoming widgets who are required to produce and function. There is less time for creativity, imagination, deep thinking, reflection and focusing our attention on truth. We may even be forgetting how to do these things. This is why we so desperately need Lent. When was the last time you were creative? When did you allow your imagination to soar? When did you last take time to ponder life's more profound questions, to throw yourself into God's presence, or consider whether you are really making the right choices?

We can be so easily swayed and convinced that we are walking down the right path and grazing in the right pasture. For all of our supposed brilliance and intelligence, we are easily fooled. We lunge for the attractive and believe that we are entitled to whatever we want. We pretend that emptiness and imperfection do not exist. All that we are and all that we have, especially our poverty, we place before the Lord. "And, having set them before the Lord, your God, you shall bow down in his presence."

Celebrating the Saints this week

This Day in History

March 13, 2013

The 2013 papal conclave elects Pope Francis as the 266th Pope of the Catholic Church.

March 11, 1893

Danish-born American ice cream vendor Christian Kent Nelson was born this day. He patented the first ice cream bar (1922). He originally sold them as "I-Scream-Bars" but later partnered with local chocolate producer Russell C. Stover to mass-produce them under "Eskimo Pie." Nelson received the inspiration for his invention when a boy in his store could not decide whether to buy ice cream or a chocolate bar, so he ventured forth to find a way to combine the two.

So, Oliver, we congratulate Pope Francis on his anniversary! I wonder if Pope Francis likes ice cream? Fr. Mark loves ice cream (only a little), but he won't give us any. He always says something about a "pooper scooper."
