Inspiration for the Week

by Rev. Mark Suslenko

St. Josemaria Escriva tells us, "To live according to the Holy Spirit means to live by faith and hope and charity. To allow God to take possession of our lives and change our hearts, making us resemble him more and more." Today we celebrate the gift of the Holy Spirit given freely by God to us. The Holy Spirit is the very breath of God and the true source of our power and strength. When we accept that God is the beginning and the end of all things, we open ourselves to receiving this powerful presence. The Holy Spirit alone is the one who teaches us how to pray, who stirs us to lift our eyes to heaven in search of our Creator, and opens them to recognize the extraordinary gifts of faith, hope, and love God gives us. The Holy Spirit is the one who teaches us how to understand ourselves, God, others, and the world. When we allow God's Own breath to take possession of us, we realize that we are meant to become like God and know Him as He is. This ultimate helper lifts our eyes from what is below to what is above and empowers us to live life with joy and keener vision!

Birthright baby bottle campaign

Return your baby bottles to the Birthright volunteer stationed after Masses this weekend (May 29 and May 30).

Prayer intentions of the Holy Father for 2022

Pope Francis

Each year, the Holy Father asks for our prayers for a specific intention each month. You are invited to answer the Holy Father's request and to join with many people worldwide in praying for this intention each month.

The intention for June: Families

We pray for Christian families around the world; may they embody and experience unconditional love and advance in holiness in their daily lives.

WHY DO WE DO THAT? CATHOLIC LIFE EXPLAINED

*Mass Celebrated
Around the World*

Question:

Is the Catholic Mass really celebrated the same throughout the whole world?

Answer:

One of the truisms of the Catholic Faith is that "wherever you go in the world, the Mass is the same." In fact, the answer to this question is both "yes" and "no."

On the one hand, the essential elements of the Roman Rite are the same. The structure of the Mass as it is presented in the Roman Missal is consistent and this is one of the beauties of belonging to a liturgical tradition.

On the other hand, however, there are elements of celebrations that can vary depending on the country or even local region you might be in. For example, in certain parts of the world, certain feasts and solemnities are celebrated on different days (even here in the United States the Solemnity of the Ascension of the Lord can be celebrated on Thursday of the Sixth Week of Easter or it may take the place of the Seventh Sunday of Easter, depending on what diocese you are in). Whether it is the use of certain liturgical colors, local celebrations of regional saints, special seasonal blessings of crops or produce, or the use of dance and processions all demonstrate a sort of organic variety that can exist even within our established liturgical tradition. While we always respect what is essential to the rite, such local variations and traditions are very much in keeping with the vision of liturgical renewal and adaption envisioned by the Second Vatican Council's Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy (nos. 37-40).

Even though Pentecost is rightly celebrated in late spring, the robust experience of a New England fall can provide a profound metaphor for reflection. A full expression of fall colors is beautiful to behold. But, with all of its majesty and beauty, the observer knows the experience of death is soon to come. Creation will be dark and barren for a while. Pentecost cannot be separated from the cross. We must first die before God's transformative, life-giving power can bear fruit.

Pentecost is all about leaving the lifeless deadwood behind and allowing God to create something new through the power of the Holy Spirit. These Pentecost creations happen over and over again. The birthing process of the Church is ongoing. God always brings life out of death and creates something where there was once nothing. That is why the fall is such an apropos metaphorical season for Pentecost. To receive the gift of the Holy Spirit, we have to die to what we once knew and what no longer works.

When fire and wind find their fullest expression, they are neither gentle nor kind. They have the potential to level anything in their paths. We are experiencing significant turmoil in our world, our nation, and our Church. Whether the result of circumstance or the work of the Holy Spirit, much of what we knew to be constant is changing. Standard systems and institutional structures that may have worked for a time no longer do. God creates something new when the old and familiar need to be left behind. Change and disorder do not need to be our enemies. They always bring opportunities for something exciting and new. What we need is untiring faith, firm hope, and perfect love.

We need the Holy Spirit to enlighten us to see what is important and what we must do. "O Holy Spirit, descend plentifully into my heart. Enlighten the dark corners of this neglected dwelling and scatter there Thy cheerful beams." (St. Augustine) If we experience joy, even amid turbulence, then we will know we are where God needs us to be. If not, then perhaps there is a lesson in the decaying leaves that graciously descend to the ground on a crisp fall day.

In response to political situation of his time, St. Oscar Romero remarked: "Let them steal our material churches, the church's history is full of that. That's not why the church is on earth. The church is something different, says Christ. The church seeks adorers of God in Spirit and in truth, and that can be done under a tree, on a mountain, by the sea. Wherever there is a sincere heart that seeks God sincerely, there is true religion. This, my friends, scandalizes many because many have wanted to tie the church to these material things. They call this prestige, they call it faithfulness to their traditions. But it can be a betrayal of the church's truth. God is Spirit and does not need the powers and things of earth. He seeks sincerity in the heart." Change doesn't mean we cease to be. It is simply an opportunity to consider who we really are.

Reflect and Respond to Scripture

First Reading:

On Pentecost Sunday, the Holy Spirit descended upon the apostles and gave them the gift of speaking in multiple languages of the mighty acts of God accomplished in Jesus Christ.

What gifts of the Spirit might you pray for today?

Second Reading:

Paul speaks of believers in Christ as having the "Spirit of God" dwelling within them.

How do you experience the presence of the Holy Spirit in your life?

Gospel:

The resurrected Jesus breathed on the disciples and gave the Holy Spirit to them to forgive or retain sins.

How often do you partake in the sacrament of reconciliation?

This Day in History — June 8, 1859

Walter Hunt

Died June 8, 1859 b. 1796

American mechanical engineer. Through the course of his work he became known for being a prolific inventor. Walter Hunt invented the modern safety pin (1849).

Various versions of safety pins date back to the ancient Romans, however, Hunt's version included a spring to hold the pin in place. Hunt sold the rights to his safety pin for $400 (equivalent to $12,440), which went on to earn millions for others.

Hunt's other inventions include a sewing machine, repeating rifle, and fountain pen.

About two dozen of his inventions are used today in basically the same form as he had patented it.
