Parishioner Regina Cram publishes book about every day saints!

Parishioner and long-time Catholic Transcript columnist Regina Cram has recently published a book entitled, "Now Do You Believe? Living the Gospel in Everyday Life." It is a compilation of stories about everyday people who are trying to put their faith into action.

There are no stained-glass saints in this book. There's the story of a man who smuggled 600 children out of Czechoslovakia as the Nazi machine ramped up, and one about a sport that brutally killed so many athletes that President Teddy Roosevelt had to step in. Sometimes hilarious, often poignant, Regina Cram paints true stories of folks trying to live everyday holiness in everyday life.

Now Do You Believe? Living the Gospel in Everyday Life is available on Amazon or through your local bookseller.

Inspiration for the Week

by Rev. Mark Suslenko

Why does God allow evil and suffering to occur? Looking around at what is happening in the world, it is tempting to get angry with God for not actively intervening. Jesus walked among the suffering and evil of his day. While he healed some things, he simply sat with the sinner, challenged the leaders, and spoke against injustice. Jesus spoke of God's kingdom and his vision for humanity. But he made it clear that our responsibility is to realize this vision. The disciples saw how Jesus lived and dealt with the day's circumstances. They wanted that same faith and determination. They wanted his fortitude and courage. They mostly wanted Jesus' confidence and patience that God's vision would be fulfilled someday. In the meantime, waiting in joyful hope, we become servants who do what is necessary: love, repent of our sin, show mercy and compassion, and fight injustice. Willingly giving witness to our faith, we expect nothing in return.

Oct. 8-9: Get your blood pressure screened

Our Parish Health Ministry is conducting its monthly blood pressure screening, provided free for you, after the 4 p.m. Mass on Sat., Oct. 8, and after both the 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Masses on Oct. 9. Screenings are held in the conference room of the south wing.

As is common in medical appointments today, masks are required; but if you do not have one with you, it will be provided with a smile!

Blood pressure screenings are free and confidential. Know your numbers and get a good handle on your health!

Volunteer Readers Needed!

The Parish Readers Ministry has a need for additional lay volunteers to participate in the proclamation of the Word at all weekend Masses.

A reader is a the person who proclaims the first and second readings at Mass and should be a fully initiated Catholic living in communion with the Church. Individuals who are able to proclaim the readings in a clear manner that expresses the dignity of scripture are usually best suited for this volunteer ministry. Training is required and provided by our parish. Please prayerfully consider volunteering for this ministry and contact Terry Bedard at: tbedard40@aol.com.

SS. Isidore and Maria Parish sincerely thanks the sponsors whose generosity makes our bulletin possible.

Do You Really Want Faith?

by Rev. Mark Suslenko

After hearing Jesus teach about what the future inevitability will bring and the need to offer unconditional forgiveness regardless of circumstances, the apostles ask him to increase their faith. They may have had difficulty understanding the rationale behind his teachings or found them lacking “popular or practical sense.” What they are hearing is something new. After all, people had settled into what were considered acceptable protocols for dealing with sinners, prostitutes, adulterers, those who hurt you, the poor, the physically challenged, adversaries and law breakers. Now they are presented with a teaching that turns all of this upside down and conveys God’s nonviolent vision of how human nature and the world are intended to operate. It is very possible that these early hearers of the Word found themselves ill equipped to do as Jesus taught. While truth resonated through Jesus’ words and actions, they were asking to have what Jesus had so that they could more adequately do it. They knew they needed more.

God’s presence and his vision are not immediately visible to the naked eye. Faith becomes the lens a person needs to see, with Divine light, beyond the limits of human sight. This “faith-seeing” gives everything its proper sacred character. St. Augustine rightly tells us that “faith is to believe what you do not see; the reward of this faith is to see what you believe.” Jesus saw his way through moral dilemmas, conflicts, questions and challenges differently than other leaders of the day. He acted in ways that were not the norm and often against Sabbath law. The apostles knew this. They also realized that he had a conviction to Truth that they admired. These close friends of Jesus also knew that they were new travelers on this road of discipleship and needed all the help they could get to stay their course and remain committed to the journey. We are not much different.

The apostles wanted faith. Faith to not despair at the inevitable suffering and evil that are a part of life. Faith to patiently wait knowing that God’s vision still has its time and will not disap-point. Faith to forgive unconditionally even when hurt in the harshest way. Faith to love, especially those who are most difficult to love and those who have wronged us. Faith to welcome the sinner, comfort those who are afflicted, break a Sabbath rule when a situation calls for mercy and compassion, and to work for justice and find nonviolent solutions to conflicts. Faith to step aside so that someone else can be first. Faith to know that God is love and that how we treat one another reflects our love for God. Faith to know that it is God’s kingdom that must be built and not our own and faith to know that it is only in dying that we find eternal life.

When Jesus stood before Pilate, he was asked whether he could explain himself. Are you who people claim you to be, the Son of God? Jesus remained silent (Mark 15: 1-5). There was no answer he needed to give or could possibly give. St. Thomas Aquinas tell us that “to the one who has faith, no explanation is necessary. To the one without faith, no explanation is possible.” The apostles, like us, had to live in a world with many others who thought very differently than themselves. They knew that there was no way they could make sense out of what Jesus said using the secular reason of the day. We face the same difficulty. Quite simply, the Gospel does not make sense in our world. They wanted a power that would allow them to stand firm, to do what Jesus taught them to do and to persevere in doing so regardless of the personal cost.

The world today is not much different than it was in Jesus’ day. We still have great measures of inequity, injustice, corruption, violence, excessive power and privilege, entitlement, selfishness, greed, the exploitation of human beings, disregard for human life and the persecution of those who challenge popular political and societal principles. As present day disciples of Jesus Christ our feet are in two worlds. While we know what Jesus says is true, we are also mired in a world that can easily pull us in other directions. It is easy to give into popular and contemporary philosophies and trends, knowing that we are really compromising our Gospel principles. It is hard to do what is just and right. It is difficult to trust. We need faith.

Our world is experiencing a crisis of faith, the loss of meaning and an absence of hope. There is so much confusion about what truth is, what it means to be a human being and what happiness is really all about. Many have abandoned the quest for a soul searching that could lead them to truth and the eternal dimensions of human existence. Corruption, greed and violence are on the increase and conflict of one kind or another are all too commonplace. Many people find themselves very unhappy and are not really sure why. Even believers find themselves a bit “weak kneed” when confronted with a defense of their faith and the ramifications for doing so. We are afraid to speak up and afraid to offend. Yet, the Gospel is the Gospel and we either believe it wholeheartedly or we do not. The first disciples were in exactly this same place. They knew what they needed to succeed.

Friends of Jesus, no matter in what time or place, have a lot in common. We are not much different and struggle with very similar things. We have heard the same teachings and often find ourselves in exactly the same place as those who have come before us. Our nation, world and church are all in crisis. We need to tone down the voice of violence and start speaking gentle words of peace. We need to stop using words suggestive of battle, defense and war and bring ourselves back to the quiet place where the words of the Beatitudes were first spoken. Those words, as well as the perfect prayer given to us by Jesus, are what call us back to truth. And, if we ever feel ill-equipped to do as Jesus asks (which may be more often than we think!), may we have the humility and courage to ask him, “Lord, increase my faith.” Then, if we are truly in love with God we will do what needs to be done and say what needs to be said without a desire for acknowledgement or praise or concern about the consequences. We are only doing what we are asked to do.

Reflect and Respond to Scripture

First Reading:

The prophet Habakkuk complained to the Lord about the violence and misery that existed in his time. In response, the Lord instructed Habakkuk to record the vision he sent him, and to be patient in waiting for its fulfillment.

Where are you waiting for the Lord's vision or direction in your life?

Second Reading:

Paul urges Timothy to see his life and work as a model for passing on the faith, especially in times of hardship.

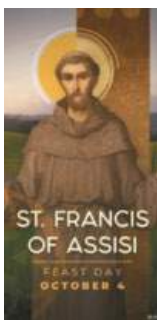

Where do you feel it is hardest to talk about Jesus in your life?

Gospel:

When the apostles ask Jesus to "increase our faith," Jesus challenges them to adopt the attitude of a servant.

How do you think being a loyal servant to the Lord can increase your faith?

This Day in History — Oct. 4

St. Francis of Assisi (1181 – 1226) left a life of luxury for a life devoted to Christianity after reportedly hearing the voice of God, who commanded him to rebuild the Christian church and live in poverty. He founded the men's Order of Friars Minor, the women's Order of St. Clare, the Third Order of St. Francis, and the Custody of the Holy Land.

St. Francis of Assisi was renowned for drinking and partying as a youth. He spent nearly a year in prison. He began receiving visions from God. After his release from prison, St. Francis of Assisi claimed to have heard the voice of Christ, who told him to restore the Christian Church and live a life of poverty. As a result, St. Francis of Assisi abandoned his life of luxury and became a devotee of the Catholic faith.

Today, St. Francis of Assisi is known for his deep love of nature and animals, and is the patron saint of the environment and animals. Each October, animals are blessed to celebrate his feast day on October 4.

Say Harry, I see that you got a "shave and a haircut" to look stylin' for the Pet Blessing on Saturday. It was sure fun to see all our friends come out to honor St. Francis. Lookin' good, Harry!
